

Colorado Conservation Fellowship

WE'RE HIRING!

The Nature Conservancy (TNC) in Colorado works to create a world where people and nature thrive. Through the efforts of TNC in Colorado, we have protected 1 million acres and improved more than 1,000 river miles across our beautiful state. If you have a passion to solve problems, build connections, and make tangible, lasting change, the Colorado Conservation Fellowship is a new early-career opportunity for you.

TNC Colorado is seeking two Conservation Fellows for a 2-year term beginning June 2023. The Fellowship is designed to provide career growth and professional development opportunities for talented, emerging professionals who embody diversity in its many forms. Fellows will work with either our Colorado Urban Conservation Manager to advance our Healthy Cities strategy in the Denver area or with the Director of Marketing and Communications to advance our efforts to engage a younger, more diverse audience in our conservation work.

We welcome candidates who identify as Latino/a/x or Hispanic, Black, Indigenous, Asian, or multiracial or are from other communities that have historically been marginalized from conservation and outdoor spaces and are curious about a career in conservation.

REASONS TO APPLY

- Be part of a mission-driven, dynamic, global conservation non-profit
- Participate in group networking, training, and other leadership development activities across the State of Colorado
- Work with a mentor
- Build your skills and knowledge to further your career

WE'RE LOOKING FOR APPLICANTS

The ideal candidate will have a background that includes:

- Bilingual Spanish, multi-lingual skills, and multi-cultural or cross-cultural experiences are appreciated.
- The equivalent combination of 1-year work experience and/or a Bachelor's degree.
- Experience coordinating projects.
- Experience working and communicating with a wide range of people.
- Experience completing tasks independently.

The preferred location for this position is in Boulder and Denver metro areas, CO. The starting salary for this position is $52,000. For a full list of TNC benefits, please see our Benefits flyer.

For a complete position description and to apply, visit careers.nature.org and search for job ID #53054.

Colorado Conservation Fellowship - developing the conservation leaders of tomorrow